Campus Readies for HS Seniors

Senior Week-end is growing nearer and nearer and the plans for this occasion are progressing at a very rapid pace. Phyllis Seid and her staff have planned a great variety of events including a talent show on Saturday afternoon.

At the talent show Dr. Roy E. Lieualen will present the "Betty Coed" and "Joe College" awards. This was decided at the last Student Council meeting with the explanation that more people will be present at the talent show than would be at the dance.

At the intermission of the semi-formal dance Dr. Lieualen's cutting of OCE's 75th birthday anniversary cake will be witnessed by these prospective students and should prove to be an event which will make a lasting impression upon the minds of all present.

Dr. Wagner To Leave

Dr. William S. Wagner, director of student teaching and director of the laboratory school, has recently announced his plans for transfer to the teaching staff of San Jose State college, San Jose, California, where he will serve as assistant professor in the department of elementary education.

Dr. Wagner is a past president of the Association of Student Teachers and the OCE Faculty club, and past regional president of the Inland Empire Association. He is also a member of the National Education Association, the Oregon Education Association, Phi Delta Kappa, and the Associated Supervisors of Curriculum Development.

Student Council Executive Board Named for Year of 1957-1958

At the counting of the ballots of the ASOCE executive council election, it was revealed that H. T. Walters was elected student body president.

There was much excitement as Lionel Miller, Sherry Ripple, Kay LeFrancq, Bill Benner and Phyllis Seid tallied the 504 ballots indicating the winners. The 504 ballots represented 73% of the student body.

The closest of the races was that of first vice-president in which Jim Beck won by a margin of eight votes. The widest margin was found in the presidential race with a safe surplus of 51 votes in favor of H. T. Walters.

The results of the "Joe College" and "Betty Coed" votes will be announced at the Talent Show next Saturday.

The following is the official record of the election:

Vocational Interest Tests Offered

The deans' office now has Strong Vocational Interest Inventory Tests which any student may take. The test must be scored at a centralized testing service, and the cost of this service is $1.50 per test. Any student desiring further information about his vocational interests and aptitudes is invited to stop in and avail himself of the opportunity to take the test. Each individual student will be responsible for furnishing the $1.50 test scoring fee. Test scores will be returned to the campus—and to the individual student—within approximately 10 days from the time the test is taken.

OCE To Present Television Show

On May 12, at 5 p.m., OCE will present a television program, tentatively titled "Individual Differences," over channel 13, Eugene. OCE's program is one of a series called "Now You Know," others of which have been produced by Oregon State college and the University of Oregon.

Dr. Jack V. Edling is chairman of the group including Dr. Margaret Hiatt, Dr. David Brody, Professor "Ken" Yost, and Dr. "Jack" Bellamy, who are responsible for writing the production. Dr. Bellamy will narrate the program. The focus of the program will be on Dr. Hiatt's third grade class at the Monmouth elementary school.

Much work went into the making of posters for the election last week as Jim Beck, Beverly Hubbard, Deanne Bauman, Arlene Bush, Sumi Kobayashi, and Ron Rainsbury well know.

High Quality Product

Next week-end is Senior Week-end. Many Seniors from the high schools of Oregon will be visiting our campus. The things they see, hear, and do here at OCE will have a pronounced effect on their future plans. Many seniors will determine whether they will or will not go to college, from the treatment received this week-end.

The Oregon College of Education campus has been known as a friendly campus for many years. We the students of OCE know that our campus is friendly, but our Senior guests do not. Therefore, every OCE student should act as a salesman, selling a very high quality product — OCE. We should be friendly and let the Seniors know that we want them to come to our school next fall.

Many Seniors will not go on to college if they feel that they will not be a social success. So every OCE student should plan to stay on campus this week-end and attend as many activities as possible, especially the dance Saturday night.

The success of this 1957 Senior Week-end depends on YOU the STUDENTS OF OCE. So let's participate and push our high quality product which is the "friendliest campus in the State of Oregon."
—R.E.K.

Closed on Sunday

A recent survey of the Sunday operations of the OCE Library showed that the Curriculum Room and the Children's Literature Room are not open to students. This has severely handicapped several student teachers who have to do a great deal of their week's preparation on Sunday. Student teachers do not have a great deal of time and therefore much of their work must be done during the week-ends.

Oregon College of Education is primarily a teachers college and many students other than the student teachers have to use the professional departments of our Library. Therefore does it not seem odd to have these facilities closed when they are needed? We hope that in the future the OCE Library staff will be able to have these departments open whenever the Library is operating. It would be welcomed by students and faculty alike.

Perhaps some sign-out system for the key to these rooms could be established, thereby eliminating the need for additional paid personnel. By the time a person reaches college age he should be mature enough to be trusted. So let's open the Curriculum Room and the Children's Literature Room on Sundays, and give it a try.

Science Exposition
On Corvallis Campus

The Oregon Museum of Science and Industry sponsored the fifth Northwest Science Exposition which was held at the Memorial Union building on the OSC campus in Corvallis from April 13 to 20. Among the judges for the exhibit were Dr. Anton Postl, associate professor of science, and Mr. James Ford, science instructor, both of Oregon College of Education.

The exposition in Corvallis was the final judging of various exhibits held previously at Salem, Portland and other communities. Dr. Postl and Dr. Donald G. Huhphrey, assistant professor of science at OCE, participated as judges in the Salem exhibition which was held March 28.

In The Gallery...

The sixth annual Monmouth display of Cascade Artists is on exhibit in the art gallery at Oregon College of Education through May 1.

This group of Oregon artists is noted for the diversity of occupations followed by its members — logging operator, professional artist, forester, art student, book collector, craftsman, etc. Cascade Artists became the group's name in February of 1952 and now meetings are held from the Oregon Coast through the length of the Willamette Val-

IRC To Discuss MUN

Brimming over with tales of exciting news and interesting events, the Model United Nations "Yemanites" will lead the discussion tonight at the IRC meeting in room 208 of the Administration building starting at 7 o'clock. Heading the group will be Bob Richard, chief delegate, backed by his "Arab" colleagues Shirley Kurtz, Denny Chamberlain, Diane Willard, Mike Ford, Judy Jeffries and Keith Richard.

As this is the second time OCE has sent representatives to the annual MUN conference, it is hoped that there will be a large turn-out for the IRC meeting. Some of the things to be discussed will be how the general assembly operates, what the various councils and committees do, and what the purpose of the MUN actually is. Useful tips as to what next year's delegation should expect will also be offered. All interested persons are invited to attend and to participate.

Books Wanted by IRC

"Do you have any college level books in good condition that you don't need or can no longer use" This is a question recently asked by the International Relations Club. IRC is collecting books for the Asia Foundation, a non-profit, non-political organization which strives to make private American support available to individuals and groups in Asia who are working for the attainment of peace, independence, personal liberty, and social progress.

Jerry Williams is chairman of the book collection committee, which consists of Jo Ann Lunas, Virginia Chapman and Gene Dinkle. These students have been collecting, sorting and pack-

PLAY CAST MAKES PREPARATIONS FOR "NIGHT MUST FALL"

"Night Must Fall" To Be Given May 16, 17

The OCE drama department has announced the spring term all-college play. "Night Must Fall" is the title of the play which will be presented May 16 and 17. The author of the play is Emlyn Williams. Mr. Williams is the author of many outstanding plays, among them, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," which was presented at OCE in 1948. Williams usually played the leading part in the "first" productions of his plays. He did so in this play in both its London and New York "firsts."

Dame May Whitty, one of England's greatest actresses, played the leading female role in this role in this play in the London and New York "firsts." She also toured with this play extensively.

If you like suspense, that's what you will get in "Night Must Fall." In the play the audience knows who the murderer is, long before the actors do and waits on edge to see what will happen.

There are several new faces in the cast of "Night Must Fall" who have not been in an OCE play before. They are Priscilla Hickman from Vernonia, playing Mrs. Bramson; Sharleen Jacobson from Portland, playing Olivia; Mark Sutherland from Hawaii, playing Hubert; and Helene Bennett from Warren, playing Dora. There are also several veterans back in this cast, including Deloris Meyers from Jefferson, as Nurse Libby; Kay Brady from Warren, as Mrs. Terrence; Les Greene, as Belsize; and George Slawson of Monmouth, as Dan.

Deloris Meyers is remembered for her outstanding work in "Father of the Bride." She is taking a shorter part in this play because she is doing practice teaching this term.

Kay Brady also played in "Father of the Bride" and worked on the staff of that play and also of "Shadow and Substance."

Mexican Tour Group to Meet

Mr. Alan Robb announces that there will be a meeting of all those interested in the tour he will conduct this summer to Southern Mexico and Yucatan.

The meeting will be held to outline the tour and to explain particulars about it. The meeting will be conducted in room 103 of Campbell hall at 8 p.m. on Thursday, April 25.

This and That

by Kendra MacLeod

Girls, it won't be long now until we will see the faces of some of the OCE men who have been hiding behind bushes the past few weeks. With the close of "Razor's Holiday" the beards will soon be coming off. That is, unless wearers have become so attached to them that they can't bear to lose them or have become too lazy to shave!

I have to admit that some of the chin decorations have been "kinda cute." Especially the neat, well-trimmed ones. As for the others . . . well . . . let's hope that the razors haven't gotten lost! Those men who stuck with the job until the bitter end are to be congratulated for their endurance!

Another feature for the festivities didn't have such good participation. Not many people took advantage of the opportunity to dress in "scroungy" clothes for three days.

Notable exceptions to this were the Wolf Knight pledges. Their garments were charming! Overalls, white shirts, ties, hip boots and gunnysacks were their raiment. Lucky for these fellows the weather was moderately cool — on warm days those outfits would have been unbearable.

A recent query has been why the whiskerino celebration was held on Easter week-end. It seems to have been a poor choice not only because of the number of students who would be going home that week-end and hence unable to attend but also from a religious standpoint. Good Friday doesn't seem like a happy choice of an evening to hold a dance.

Ten o'clock Thursday mornings, an OCE phenomenon takes place. This is the mass migration of Christy's history class down to Maple hall for a group coffee break. They all have their break with Christy either roaming around, talking or sitting, drinking his coffee with the men at one table. When he figures that time is up he stands. At that signal nearly everyone in the room groans that the break was too short, but obediently follows him back to class for the last hour.

I've rattled on long enough for this issue. There is a baseball game this afternoon, if it doesn't rain again, which I will attend instead of attacking the books, so I guess I'll be saying good-bye until next issue.

Name Spinney, Kenyon As Mothers' Day Heads

Stan Kenyon Jeannette Spinney

Last Monday the Student Council appointed Jeannette Spinney and Stan Kenyon as co-chairmen of the OCE Mothers' Day, to take place on May 4.

All mothers have been invited to come to the campus for a luncheon and other activities that are being outlined by Jeannette, Stan, and their committees. The plans now consist of a luncheon to be served in Todd hall, a fashion show, and general tour of the campus.

It is the request of the committee that all students inform their mothers of the event and to personally invite them to attend.

Position Open

Notice has been received from Meier & Frank Company in Salem, that they will be willing to employ an OCE girl as a member of their college board this summer. Any student who is interested in this position is asked to fill out application blanks in Miss Seavey's office.

DEAR AGGIE . . .

An Understanding Hand

By Agatha Von Effinburger

DEAR AGGIE:

I have a problem. One man has told me to go see a psychiatrist and another has told me that all I need is a spanking and he'd be glad to correct the deficiency. What should I do? I leave the choice up to you and will follow as you advise.

—MUDDLED EMMA

DEAR MUDDLED:

A conference with a psychiatrist probably wouldn't be as touching or as close to the seat of the subject as would the warm, understanding hand of your second friend.

DEAR AGGIE:

My boy-friend has gone to San Francisco with the OCE Choir and will be gone until Monday. One of my ex-boy-friends has asked me to do the town with him Saturday. Would it be proper for me to accept?

DEAR PANICKED:

No, of course it wouldn't be proper — but it might be fun!

Sports of Sorts

BY RUSS BAGLIEN

It will come as no surprise if Dwaine Brandt, OCE's stylish southpaw hurler, signs a contract with the Salem Senators of the Northwest League after the Wolves complete their diamond season in late May. I have it on good authority that Senator Manager Bill Brenner is more than casually interested in Brandt and will no doubt be over to give him the once-over when the Senators return from spring training this week. Brandt certainly deserves a crack at pro ball. Although not big, as pitchers go, Brandt has enough on his fast ball to go with a good curve and crafty control to make a go of it in the pro circuit. Brandt himself says he's interested in pro baseball, so, here's hoping he gets a chance to find out if he can make the grade.

Brandt would be a natural for the Senators if he can win in the Northwest League. Along with providing the Senators with a capable hurler, Brandt could also prove to be good for the Capitol City nine, gatewise. Undoubtedly, Brandt would bring in some heretofore untapped fans from the Monmouth area, which would please the financially trodden Senators no end.

Al Lightner, Oregon Statesman sports editor and basketball referee (of squabble fame), told this writer last week that Brenner had mentioned Brandt to him at the Senators' Wasco, California, training camp. With Brandt and Andy George, OCE's football line coach last season, both hurling for the hometown Senators, the local area baseball fans should develop a new interest in the Salem Senators.

BRODY OUT AT RADIO STATION KSLM

Steve Brody, KSLM sportscaster who got acquainted with several OCE people while broadcasting Wolfpack football and basketball games during the past year, is apparently out of a job at KSLM. Dave Hoss, KSLM manager, announced last week that Brody's job as sports director of the station was being eliminated and that Ted Carlson would take over as the play-by-play announcer for the Salem Senator games this season. The story didn't mention if Brody would remain with the station in another capacity or not. Likeable and talkable Steve probably will try to cast his lot with some other station if he can't do sports, because he literally breathes all sports. OCE'ers will miss the rotund and jolly Brody. Wonder what Steve will do with his bright and shiny Nash station wagon? Brody purchased the sleek auto only recently and had it painted up royally, advertising KSLM's sports coverage. Buying a new car is like lighting up a cigarette in a restaurant. Soon as you get the fag lit, they bring your dinner. Brody will probably have to spring for a new paint job.

BRAVO, LETTER AWARDS COMMITTEE

The Varsity "O" committee on revising standards for awarding of OCE varsity athletic awards needs to be congratulated for making some much needed changes in an antiquated policy. The idea of making a student complete at least three terms at OCE (two in one school year, at least) before being qualified to receive a letter award, has long been needed. And giving lifetime passes to three and four-year lettermen and blankets to four-year lettermen lends a little more honor to the athletic award system of the college. The revisions will mean one-term or two-term athletes will not receive letter awards (and expensive jackets) and graduating three and four-year lettermen will be able to see the alma mater play anytime they want to return to the campus. The nice part is that they probably will bring paying customers with them. The only injustice we can foresee is when freshmen earn a letter in football and are then drafted into the service. Perhaps student council should make a special exception for these minor few who happen to get tagged by the draft board. After all, the members on their local draft board probably haven't read the OCE constitution as it pertains to athletic awards (or anything else, for that matter.)

Trophies Ready For Running of Central Relays

Nearly 20 teams are expected at the fourth annual Central Relays, which will be held Friday, April 26, on the OCE field starting at 6:30 p.m. This event, which is sponsored annually by Central high school, has attracted an increasingly larger field each year. Marv Heater, Central track coach and athletic director, will be in charge of the meet which was started by Sam Bell during his tenure at the school. The affair is invitational with the entry list being restricted to class A-2 schools.

Trophies donated by merchants of the community are given in each event to the winning school and a large trophy is presented to the over-all winner of the meet. Newport is the defending champion, in fact has won for the past two years.

A queen will be elected by the track squad from a group of princesses chosen by each class at the school. Candidates include Junia McKnight and Gretchen Yost, freshmen; Beverly Fleming and Verona Lyon, sophomores; Charlene Jones and Joyce Clark, juniors; and Barbara Muller and Kitty Waldron, seniors.

Firms which have donated trophies include Prime's Service Station, Monmouth Coop, Gray's Rexall Drug, M & F Store, Emerson Teague Chevrolet, Independence Laundry, Pat & Harry's Dairy Dream, Frank Hedges Hardware, Hart Motor Co, John Pfaff Insurance, M M Nelson Oil company, Powell & Rauch Insurance and C H Harwood Oil company.

The javelin, pole vault, 100 yard dash and discus will be run as individual events and there will be relays in the broad jump, shot put, high jump, 440 yard run, distance medley, shuttle hurdles, two mile and 880.

Seniors Give Challenge In Inter-Class Meet

The senior class has hurled a challenge at all underclassmen "hoping for a little competition" in the annual inter-class track meet to be held Thursday, April 25, at 4 p.m.

Ample track and field events will be provided for all who care to participate.

Those interested in entering any of the events should contact their class representatives as to which event they wish to enter. Representatives are: Jerry Flug, freshmen; Bill Fulhart, sophomore; Don Imel, junior; and Zell Gernhart, senior.

Last Day To Drop 'em

Saturday, April 26, is the last day students may drop courses without being responsible for grades. Forms for dropping courses will not be accepted in the Registrar's office after that date.

Educators Declare Conference a Success

Many delegates at the 31st annual education conference held at OCE Saturday, April 13, expressed the opinion that the conference was a resounding success.

In discussing the general theme "World Religions—their Place in the Curriculum" both of the principal speakers, Dr Richard M Steiner, Portland, and Dr Roald Campbell, Ohio State university, challenged the public schools to assume a new role in the area of religion.

There seemed to be general agreement between the speakers that religion is a vital force in our society, that recent Supreme Court decisions have made evident that the traditional separation of church and state is not as absolute as it was once accepted to be, and that the public school may play an important role in teaching about religion for the purpose of greater understanding and less prejudice among all groups.

Wolves and Vikings Split Doubleheader

by Joe Hooven

The OCE Wolves opened their conference season on Saturday, April 13, against the Portland State Vikings and wound up with a split for their trouble. OCE took the first game 8-1 with the Vikings winning the second 4-1.

The highlight of the first contest was a high hard home run by Pesk Ramsey. Duane Brandt got two for three times at the plate and gave up five hits for his third win of the season.

The Vikings, paced by the hitting of Harding and Kilmer, jumped on Kelly Hoy for five hits and four runs to grab the second contest. Ted Owens released Hoy in the fourth and held the Vikings hitless, but the Wolves could not muster enough strength at the plate to overcome the lead.

OCE was scheduled to play the Willamette Bearcats last Wednesday but old man weather forced a postponement.

Clark J. C. Golfers Defeat OCE Squad

Wednesday Gary Campbell was medalist in the golf match with Clark Junior College with a 74.

The brilliant play of Campbell failed however to take the match for OCE. Clark Junior College won 13½ to 4½.

Campbell defeated Gary Ray, 21, and John Mikelcich defeated Bill Bork, 2½ to ½, to score all of OCE's points.

The golfers of OCE will, in the near future, display their skill at the Salem Golf Course and spectators are invited.
